NUMBER 94.

Rev. Father Wilds' EXPERIENCE.

The Rev. Z. P. Wilds, well-known city missionary in New York, and brother of the late eminent Judge Wilds, of the Massachusetts Supreme Court, writes as follows:

"78 E. 54th St., New York, May 16, 1882.

MESSRS. J. C. AYER & CO., Gentlemen:

Last winter I was troubled with a most uncomfortable itching humor affecting more especially my limbs, which itched so intolerably at night, and burned so intensely, that I could scarcely bear any clothing over them. I was also a sufferer from a severe catarrh and catarrhal cough; my appetite was poor, and my system a good deal run down. Knowing the value of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by observation of many other cases, and from personal use in former years, I began taking it for the above-named disorders. My appetite improved almost from the first dose. After a short time the fever and itching were allayed, and all signs of irritation of the skin disappeared. My catarrh and cough were also cured by the same means, and my general health greatly improved, until it is now excellent. I feel a hundred per cent stronger, and I attribute these results to the use of the SARSAPARILLA, which I recommend with all confidence as the best blood medicine ever devised. I took it in small doses three times a day, and used, in all, less than two bottles. I place these facts at your service, hoping their publication may do good.

Yours respectfully, Z. P. WILDS."

The above instance is but one of the many constantly coming to our notice, which prove the perfect adaptability of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA to the cure of all diseases arising from impure or impoverished blood, and a weakened vitality.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

cleanses, enriches, and strengthens the blood, stimulates the action of the stomach and bowels, and thereby enables the system to resist and overcome the attacks of all Serofulous Diseases, Eruptions of the Skin, Rheumatism, Catarrh, General Debility, and all disorders resulting from poor or corrupted blood and a low state of the system.

Plants Drinking.

There is in every blade of grass, in the rootlets of every vegetable plant, and in every opening bud or blossom, a question for deep inquiry and minute investigation. The boys on the farm need not spend their time in listlessness. They ought to read with profit the great lessons of physical and vegetable life which are around them every day. When one carefully considers the great number of open books presented constantly to the mind of the farmer, it is a wonder he is not the wisest and most learned of his race. Practical botany, bewitching in its nature, is well calculated to lead him captive into the boundless fields of science.

In connection with the annual amount of rainfall is the question of how much water plants drink. The results of careful experimenters, who have brought into their service patience, skill, and all of the necessary apparatus, give almost incredible results. Dr. Lawes, of England, has found that an average of 2,000 pounds of water is absorbed, or passes through the roots of a plant, for every pound of mineral matter assimilated by it. At the French Agricultural Observatory it was found that 7,702 pounds of water passed up through the roots of a wheat crop for every 10 1/4 pounds of grain produced. Or 727 pounds of water for each pound of grain in rich soil, while in very poor soil 1,616 pounds were passed through the roots of the same quantity of wheat for a product of about half a pound of grain, or 2,693 pounds of water for each pound of grain.

But our young readers may inquire what are the mineral substances which in a liquid state are taken up by water through the rootlets to form the grain. They are potash, soda, lime, alumina, copper, zinc, sulphur, magnesia, oxide of iron, oxide of manganese, silica, and probably a few other minerals in a limited degree. But by what power are the water and mineral substances thus taken up? This is going rather too far into the secrets of the Great Creator, by whose laws the planets whirl in their orbits, and the blade of grass grows.

But scientists tell us that there is a silent yet ever active force or agency which they term osmotic force. This, in connection with the winds or atmospheric motion which affect more or less all vegetation in all parts of the globe, accomplish the work. It will be seen that the water takes from the earth but minute quantities, in comparison to its own volume, of the minerals which constitute the larger portion of wheat. But this clearly shows the absolute necessity for the earth being supplied with water to fill the demands which vegetation makes upon it.

But these various subjects in connection with agriculture, and how plants grow, are of such absorbing interest, it is a wonder all farmers do not become the most learned in botany and agricultural chemistry. Here is a wide, interesting and valuable field for farm boys to enter, and while benefiting themselves, they may benefit the world.—Iowa State Register.

— A Philadelphia crank, who wears an exceedingly high hat, "to prevent the lightning from striking him," places upon the roof of his house every day a large quantity of fruit for an imaginary girl to eat. A small boy, who has learned of the eccentric conduct of the old gentleman, climbs to the roof daily on a lightning rod and does much to confirm the old man's belief in the mythical female.—Philadelphia Press.

The Smiley Picnic.

This annual gathering occurred in a pretty neck of woods, by a babbling streamlet, yesterday. It would have been a success but for the extraordinary kittenish prank of Mr. Ichabod Smiley, who ought to have known better. The relatives of the family were all invited, and Hannah sent her good man out to notify each one what to carry, so that there might be a goodly variety. Ichabod had such an opportunity to play a good joke that he couldn't help it, and at the spreading of the table this is the way it came out:

"I've had such luck with my beans," said one of the ladies, "they're too sa't, and nearly burned."

"Why, did you bring beans? Uncle Ichabod said I was to bring beans."

"Did he? Why he must have made a mistake. No two were to bring anything alike."

"I never had so much trouble baking beans in all my life," said another lady. "I'm sure they won't be fit to eat."

"Neither did I," said the sweet voiced and newest married niece of the old gentleman, "and I told Uncle Ichabod I had much rather make a chocolate cake, but he insisted on beans."

"And I intended to bring boiled ham, and he told me I was expected to furnish beans," said his wife's sister Ketura.

And so it went on until each basket had been opened. Every blessed woman in the party deposited a pot of baked beans on the table, a loaf of brown bread and nothing else. Hannah's chagrin was terrible to see. She cried, she scolded, she even threatened never to live with her partner another minute. And Ichabod, well, he s' owed up after awhile and every one of those women went for him. It was no use in his making excuses, and laughing till his sides ached. They didn't like it, and it was not until he went hobbling off into the woods to find some "checkerberry leaves" that the e was any peace at the picnic.

"The idea of his saying it reminded him so much of Boston," said his wife as she tried to smile between her tears, "but then, Ichabod always would have his joke."—New Haven Register.

— A barn in Granby, Oswego County, was struck by lightning recently, the bolt being attracted, it is thought, by the large bronzed vane and horse with heavy iron rod, extending into an elm flag staff. The latter was completely shattered, and driven through the side of the building and into the earth, and is unburied. Portions of the vane were carried a long distance. The fine new barn was saved by strong wind blowing in the right direction, but some lesser buildings were burned. Not a particle of rain fell for some time, before or after the buildings burned, and at the same moment of the shock there was not a particle of thunder or lightning, or a dark cloud overhead.—N. Y. —Hard-Money Cake: Gold part—Take two cups of sugar, a scant cup of butter, and work together to a cream, then add the yolks of eight eggs, four cups of flour and one tablespoonful of corn-starch: one cup of sour milk, with a teaspoonful of soda in it, added the last thing, except the flavor, which may be lemon and vanilla. Silver part—Take two cups of sugar and one of butter, four cups of flour and one tablespoonful of corn-starch, the whites of eight eggs, one cup of sour milk, teaspoonful of soda: flavor with almond or peach. Put in the baking-pan alternately one spoonful of gold and one of silver.—Boston Transcript.

A FORESTRY Convention will be held at Cincinnati April 26 and 27.

THE Directors of the Ohio River Railroad have awarded the contracts for the work from Wheeling to Point Pleasant.

THE holders of Bourbon whisky in Kentucky and elsewhere are making an effort to have the Canadian laws so modified that whisky can be imported into that country in packages containing less than one hundred imperial gallons. If the effort is successful some of the whisky in bond will be sent to Canada in order to defer the payment of the tax.

THE American Register says: Whenever the Federal Government withdraws its Briarean arms from the vile uses to which they have been applied through twenty years in uplifting and aggrandizing monopolists of wealth and owners of great corporations, whenever it separates itself from speculators and banks and railway rings, resuming its proper tasks of devotion to the people, there will come a collapse, and the original and natural equalization of conditions and of fortunes will be slowly but surely reproduced. The anti monopolists need not be impatient. The end they aim at will be attained whenever the fact, as well as forms and names, of honest Republican institutions are restored.

THE official count of the vote at the primary election printed elsewhere shows that Mr. Kehoe has won the Democratic nomination for Representative in the General Assembly. The fight was sharp and somewhat acrimonious, but no serious wounds were given or received during the contest. There are no good reasons why there should not be a full vote given for the nominee in August and given willingly and cordially. The outlook is that the Republicans will place a candidate in the field, whom they will use their best efforts to elect by the solid vote of their own party and such Democrats as they can toll to his support. We hope every Democrat will bear this in mind when he comes to vote at the election in August.

NEWS BREVITIES.

The town of Dana, in Worcester county, Mass., has just voted, by 63 to 32, that no liquor shall be sold there. We are proud of that town.

The Polish novelist, J. J. Kraszewski, is probably the most voluminous of living writers, he having published four hundred and ninety novels.

A "pluck me" store in the coal regions is one owned by the mine operator, who compels his employees to buy their supplies at exorbitant prices.

The Concord school is to philosophize again next summer. Bronson Alcott will be present as a listener, and possibly as a speaker. A cynic remarks that the venerable Mr. Alcott's incoherence of language resulting from his illness, will be no disqualification as a teacher of Concord wisdom. A long course of lectures has been arranged, of which Homer and Greek religion are features.

M. Adolphe Denetier, a distinguished member of the French turf, recently met his death in a somewhat peculiar fashion. He was opening the claw of a lobster when his fork slipped, and inflicted a small wound in his finger. This was thought nothing of at the time, but blood poisoning followed shortly after, and, in spite of all that medical aid could do, the unfortunate gentleman died in a few days.

A lawsuit about a $5 dog has reached a Supreme Court decision in Boston at a cost of $1,500. Mr. Palmer passed the summer of 1880 at Winthrop, and had with him his dog, which had been properly licensed in Boston. The Winthrop officials imposed a fine, which he refused to pay, on the ground that the Boston licenses legalized the brute anywhere in the State. The decision is against him.

Mr. Coe has been a distributor of tracts on Connecticut railroad trains. He made an onslaught on the prize package and book peddlers, and in that was backed by a number of daily travellers on the line; but to his surprise and grief, after the vendors had been suppressed, forty-seven of the same passengers signed a petition declaring that he, with his persistent forcing of his tracts upon those who did not want them, was also a nuisance to be abated.

Wagner got mixed up with the famous trial of Count Armin. Among other charges brought against the Count was that of having compared Prince Bismarck to Wagner in a note published by him under the title of "The Secret of the Chancellor." In one passage the Count had said ironically that the Prince was "the greatest living person next to Wagner." This, it was argued for the prosecution, was a deadly insult, "it being perfectly notorious that Wagner, the musician, was stark staring mad." One can imagine the effect of this judgment on the mind of the super-sensitive composer.

At a dinner party at Cannes recently, a man of advanced years was complaining of the march of time and the inroads of old age. Mr. Gladstone, who was present, smiled at his regrets, and pointed out that he was considerably older than the grumbler, and yet felt almost as youthful as ever, "Why, if you are an old man," Mr. Gladstone inquired, "what, pray, must I be?" There was a solemn pause. The humor of the inevitable answer struck all the English who were present, and as one of the company murmured faintly himself, "Why a grand old man, to be sure," a ripple of merriment ran round the table, in which the statesmen heartily joined.

With reference to tax on banks the new tariff law provides as follows: "That the taxes herein specified imposed by the laws now in force, be and the same are hereby repealed as hereinafter provided, viz.: on capital and deposits of banks and bankers and of National banks, except such taxes as are now due and payable, and on and after July 1, 1883, the stamp tax on bank checks, drafts and orders."

THE Boston Post believes that the idea of having State capitols in large cities is all wrong. "Have 'em in small towns," the Post says, "where hotels are bad, variety shows scarce and most of the girls homely. Then you'll get short sessions and quick adjournments."

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.

MONDAY EVE., MARCH 12, 1883.

ROSSER & McCARTHY,
PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETORS.

THE firing down the line has ceased;
The smoke has cleared away,
And lo! we see as the result
That Kehoe wins the day.
And when the final fight begins,
To have things just the same,
Every soldier must be there
To answer to his name.

THE whipping post is not dead but sleepeth.

MR. R. D. STEVENS, a good citizen of the Fern Leaf neighborhood, died on Saturday night. The funeral took place this morning.

It should be remembered that a man who goes into a primary election is considered in honor bound to support the nominee, whoever he may be.

GEORGE TAYLOR, who is a kind of philosopher in his way, consoles himself with the reflection that Henry Clay was a defeated candidate once, and he does not in consequence feel at all bad over his recent canvass. Sensible, George.

MRS. ANN HOLTON, wife of Mr. J. H. Holton, died on Saturday at the residence of her son, W. W. Holton, of this city, in the eighty-first year of her age. The news of her death will be received with sincere sorrow by a wide circle of friends in Maysville and elsewhere.

On Saturday afternoon a difficulty occurred at the polls in Maysville precinct No. 1, between Mr. A. C. Respass and Mr. Charles B. Pearce, Jr., during which a shot was fired by Respass but fortunately without effect. The unfortunate affair grew out of the heat and excitement of the election.

The protracted meeting at the M. E. Church, South, continues with unabated interest. The congregations have been large and the services of unusual interest. Thus far there have been five accessions to the church and three conversions. Rev. B. F. Bristow will preach this afternoon at three o'clock, and Rev. S. X. Hall at 7:30 this evening.

Mission Services.

The order of the Mission services at St. Patrick's Church this week, will be as follows: Mass every morning until Friday including that day, at 5 and 8 o'clock; then Holy Rosary will be recited every evening at 7:30 o'clock to be followed by a sermon and Benediction. Next Wednesday morning after Mass, will begin the Holy Devotion of Forty Hours Adoration, which will continue until Friday morning. On Saturday morning at 10 o'clock there will be Solemn High Mass by three priests. St. Patrick's Benevolent Society, Father Mathew's Society and the Sodality B. V. M. will attend Mass in a body, and during the services the banners of the two last named societies will be blessed. Rev. Father Brady, a Jesuit from Cincinnati will deliver the sermon on that day. The Mission exercises will close on Sunday evening with the Papal Blessing. Holy Communion was administered on Sunday to about two hundred and fifty persons members of the various Catholic societies in the city. Father Timothy who preached on Sunday morning spoke in highly complimentary terms of the interest manifested in the services by the congregation and the community generally. The sermon on Sunday night by Father Leo on the subject of "Hell" was exceedingly interesting and instructive.

County Court Proceedings.

The following reports of settlements returned and filed at the last term were ordered to be recorded, viz:

Same, guardian of Mary C. Thomas.

Same, guardian of James B. Thomas.

The following settlements were this day filed and laid over till the April term for exceptions, to-wit:

W. F. Kennan guardian of Mary A. Miller.

James H. Rice executor of Charles P. Chappel, deceased.

Will H. Cox administrator of George Cox, deceased.

B. F. Clift administrator of W. B. Gaines, deceased.

S. G. Hord guardian of Jane L. Walker.

R. P. Mitchell administrator of Elizabeth Mitchell, deceased.

W. F. Hord qualified as guardian of F. B. Hord, with S. G. Hord surety.

Daniel Perrine qualified as administrator of George Garrison, deceased, with J. C. Pickett surety. Appraisers: M. F. Marsh, John Strasbaugh and Andrew Brittain.

St. Patrick's Day.

Next Saturday the natal day of Ireland's patron Saint will be duly celebrated by the various Irish societies of Maysville. There will be a grand parade through the streets by the societies in full uniform and at night there will be speaking at the Court House by Rev. Father Brady of Cincinnati, a distinguished and eloquent preacher of the order of Jesuits. The address will be on the subject of Intemperance and it is hardly necessary to say that it will be both entertaining and instructive. The line of march through the city is as follows.

The column will form promptly at two o'clock in front of St. Patrick's Church on Limestone street, in the following order:

Hacks with Guests.

Haucke's Brass and Reed Band. Father Mathew's Total Abstinence Society. Sodality B. V. M. Fifth Ward Bard.

St. Patrick's Benevolent Society.

Line of March—Down Third to Wall, down Wall to Second, down Second to C. B. Pearce's residence and countermarch. Up Second to Limestone, down Limestone to Front, down to Market, up Market to Fourth, east on Fourth to Plum, down Plum to Bridge, down Bridge to Second in the Fifth Ward, thence to Hall's shop and countermarch; down Second to Bridge, on north Bridge to Third, down Third to the church on Limestone and break ranks.

MRS. M. J. MORFORD, the well-known milliner, has just arrived from Cincinnati with a choice stock of goods in her line, to which she calls the attention of her friends. The prices will be found very low.

THAT "KITCHEN GUARD."

BY AN UNKNOWN FRIEND OF THOSE "KITCHEN BELLES."

That "Kitchen Guard!" That "Kitchen Guard!"

'Tis plain to see is trying hard
To strike those "Belles" and have them ring
A sweeter note than he can sing.

That "Kitchen Guard!" Ah foolish bard!
He'll ne'er succeed, try he so hard,
To have those "Belles" to him alone
Ring out that note of sweetest tone.

That "Kitchen Guard" knows all too well
He dearly loves a "Kitchen Belle,"
With golden locks and laughing eyes,
And rosy cheeks that none despise.

But then he knows—"tis oft the case—
Another guard is in the race,
And so he prays in batch'lor's cell,
Him, Fate, to give that "Kitchen Belle."

Those "Kitchen Belles!" They know him well,
For such as he a batch'lor's cell,
Is all too good in which to pine
"Some one now rings what should be mine."

Oh, cruel "Guard," you know too well,
That once you fooled a "Kitchen Belle,"
And had her think none else could win
Your love from her. It proved "too thin."

It "wouldn't wash," you're now too late."
Those Fern Leaf boys—how hard's your fate!

There was not a lawyer at Alexander's court at the burg. He has no need of them.

The sale of Mr. Jasper M. Hixson, on the 8th inst., was well attended, a great many articles being sold which brought good prices.

A wagon with two horses attached to it came into town Thursday under full headway without a driver. They started from Helena Station, kept the road and did no damage. They were caught by Chas. Hopper.

Charles Dobyns and wife, who live near the Millcreek Church, are two of the oldest couple now living together, their wedded life has almost reached three score and ten years. The old gentleman is growing quite feeble, and has lost the sight of one of his eyes by cancer.

On last Thursday we drove over to Lewisburg having a little case in law to be tried before Squire Alexander, who I found to be a gentleman in every sense of the word, a judge of law and presides with a great deal of dignity and maintains the most perfect order. He had quite a large docket. We gained our case, and were highly amused listening at a case between Mr. Harrison and John Curtis. Such a case must tire the patience of a court. When we arrived at the burg we were chilled through. We stopped at E. T. Gaither's and was received by the belle of Lewisburg, Miss Mattie Gaither, who soon had us seated by a rousing hot fire, was soon relieved of our chilliness.

Life-Slavery for Debt.

It was recently brought out in a debate in the House of Commons that slavery of the worst class—debt slavery—not only was allowed to exist, but was actually protected and upheld in one of the Malay native States which are under the protection of England, and where the British flag is constantly kept flying. A correspondent, who vouches for the accuracy of every particular, sends us the following narrative of the way in which a British resident fosters this hateful system. Mr. James Innes (writes our correspondent), son of the late Prof. Cosmo Innes, of Edinburg, has been for some years Collector and magistrate in one of the Malay native States called Selangor. While there one of his chief duties was to discourage slavery, which he did with very great success. In August, 1878, however, he was moved to another of the three Malay native States, called Perak, to relieve a brother official who had been invalided home. In Perak Mr. Innes found to his astonishment that part of his duty as magistrate was to issue warrants for the capture of runaway slaves and to see that the warrants were carried out. He inquired of the other English officials in the place, and found that this disreputable work, as he considered it, had been done by his predecessor and also by the Superintendents of Police, but that they had always done it with great reluctance, and only in obedience to the express commands of Mr. Low, the Resident of Perak. It appeared that it was the custom of the country, encouraged and approved by the Governor of the Straits settlements. The more Mr. Innes inquired into the subject the more revolting it appeared. It was proved beyond a doubt that the unfortunate slaves never ran away unless their lives were made absolutely unendurable. It also appeared that when, by the agency of the English magistrates or otherwise these poor wretches were caught and returned to their masters, they were not infrequently tortured to death. This was done to deter others from following their example. Mr. Innes naturally hesitated at making himself an accessory to murder. In Malaya, as in other States where debt slavery prevails, a peasant who borrows a sovereign from his landlord is liable on failure to repay the loan to be made a slave for life, together with his wife and family. Even children born after their parents have become debt slaves are the property of the creditor, and their children, also. The result is that almost every one in the country who is not a rajah is a slave. There is no middle class in a Malay country, nothing between a rajah and a ryot. The rajah feeds and clothes his slaves, of course, in return for their labor, and sometimes treats them not unkindly, calling them his children. But he can sell them for so much a head, or order them to be killed if they should offend him.—Pall-Mall Gazette

The Spare Boy.

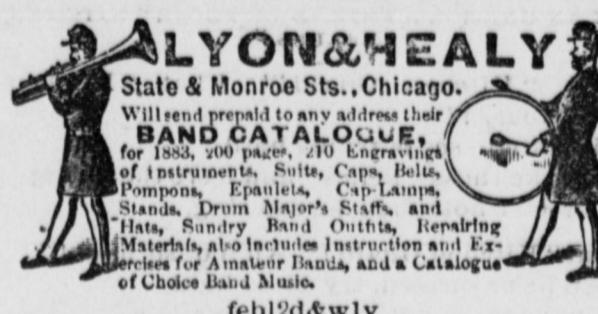

The hunting season is about to set in, and the average Austin boy begins to worry the life out of his parents for a gun, with which, in all human probability, the boy will either cripple himself, or somebody else.

"Father," said Johnny Fizzletop, "can't you spare money enough to get me a gun?"

"My son, when I can spare a boy, I'll get you a gun."

Johnny closed the debate by saying that he was a spare boy anyhow, and that his sparesness was caused by his not getting enough to eat.—Texas Siftings.

Nine-tenths of the Territory of Arizona is claimed under an old Spanish grant by one J. A. Reavis, who announces that he is about to bring suit to enforce his rights. He promises to be magnanimous to all who concede the validity of his claims without opposition, and to be generous to such newspapers as write favorably about him, but he threatens to deal severely with those who contest his demands in a factious spirit. At latest accounts Reavis had arrived in Tucson. The claim that he asserts probably has no real validity yet, like the Captain Valliere suit for 6,000,000 acres in Arkansas, it may possibly be made the basis for litigation.—N. Y. Sun.

NOTICE.

IT having been asserted that I am preparing to move to the country and give up my interest in the Sewing Machine business, I take this method of announcing to my friends and the public that there is not a word of truth in it except that I will move my family to the country but will continue to sell the OLD RELIABLE SINGER at the same place, second street, opposite postoffice, and run my wagons in the country as heretofore. Competitors please notice the above. I am thankful to the public for the large patronage I have received for the past nine years, and respectfully solicit a share in the future.

Kendall's Spavin Cure.

The Most Successful Remedy ever discovered, as it is certain in its effects and does not blister. READ PROOF BELOW.

From Rev. P. N. GRANGER,

Presiding Elder of the St. Albans District.

ST. ALBANS, VT., Jan., 20, 1880.

DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In reply to your letter I will say that my experience with Kendall's Spavin Cure has been very satisfactory indeed. Three or four years ago I procured a bottle of your agent, and with it, cured a horse of lameness caused by a spavin. Last season my horse became very lame and I turned him out for a few weeks when he became better, but when I put him on the road he grew worse, when I discovered that a ring-bone was forming, I procured a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure and with less than a bottle cured him so that he is not lame, neither can the bunch be found. Respectfully yours,

P. N. GRANGER.

Perseverance Will Tell.

STROUGHTON, MASS., March 16, 1880.

B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In justice to you and myself, I think I ought to let you know that I have removed two bone spavins with Kendall's Spavin Cure, one very large one, don't know how long the spavin had been there. I have owned the horse eight months. It took me four months to take the large one off and two for the small one. I have used ten bottles. The horse is entirely well, not at all stiff, and no bunch to be seen or felt. This is a wonderful medicine. It is a new thing here, but if it does for all what it has done for me it will be very great.

Respectfully yours, CHAS. E. PARKER.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE is sure in its effects, mild in its action as it does not blister, yet it is penetrating and powerful to reach a very deep seated pain or to remove any bony growth or other enlargement, such as spavins, splints, curbs, callous, sprains, swellings, any lameness and all enlargements of the joints or limbs, or rheumatism in man and for any purpose for which a liniment is used for man or beast. It is now known to be the best liniment for man ever used, acting mild and yet certain in its effects.

Send address for illustrated Circular which we think gives positive proof of its virtues. No remedy has ever met with such unqualified success to our knowledge, for beast as well as man.

Price $1. per bottle, or six bottles for $5. ALL DRUGGISTS have it or can get it for you or it will be sent to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors, DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO., Enosburgh Falls, Vermont.
